

JASON MILLER

SENIOR VICE PRESIDENT, OPERATIONS

SUPER BOWL CHAMPION: 2017 (LII), 2024 (LIX)

Jason Miller was named the Philadelphia Eagles' senior vice president, operations in 2014 after spending 11 years developing the organization's facility operations department. In this role, Miller oversees facilities, event operations, grounds, food and beverage, security, and cleaning for Lincoln Financial Field and the Jefferson Health Training Complex.

Miller joined the organization as the facilities manager with the opening of Lincoln Financial Field in 2003. He was then promoted to director of facility operations in 2009 and then again to vice president of facility operations in 2012. Miller oversaw the revitalization of Lincoln Financial Field from 2013-14, a project focused on enhancing the fan experience through better convenience, comfort, and connection.

He and his staff have been a major part of the team's Go Green initiatives. The team's green energy program, which consists of 10,456 solar panels, has positioned Lincoln Financial Field to be among the greenest major sports facilities in the world. The stadium is LEED Platinum certified as a result of the team's sustainability efforts.

Prior to his time with the Eagles, Miller was a project manager and system analyst at Johnson Controls Inc., in West Bend, WI, from 2002-03. He initially joined The Milwaukee Center as a maintenance engineer in 1990 before working his way up to chief engineer (1999-02).

Miller earned Advanced Certification & Education from the Milwaukee School of Engineering and Milwaukee Area Technical College.

Originally from Milwaukee, WI, Miller currently resides in New Jersey with his wife, Liz, their three daughters, Gypsy, Raegan, and Jaren, his granddaughter, Ollie, and their lab, Snoop.
