

JOE PANNUNZIO

ASSISTANT SPECIAL TEAMS COORDINATOR/ DIRECTOR OF TEAM RELATIONSHIPS

NFL Experience: 10th Year (10th with Eagles)
College: Southern Colorado Hometown: Pueblo, CO

SUPER BOWL CHAMPION: 2024 (LIX)

A veteran coach with 45 years of combined experience in the NFL and collegiate ranks, Joe Pannunzio enters his 10th season with the Philadelphia Eagles, including his sixth as assistant special teams coordinator. He added the title of director of team relationships during the 2026 offseason.

In 2025, Pannunzio contributed to the Eagles ranking first in the NFL in blocked kicks (four). He also helped Braden Mann record a league-best 14 punts of 60-plus yards and a franchise-record punting average (49.9). Additionally, Kylen Granson and Jeremiah Trotter Jr. tied for the team lead with 18 special teams tackles — the most by any Eagle since 2008.

Pannunzio aided a special teams unit that played an important role in Philadelphia capturing Super Bowl LIX in 2024, with Jake Elliott posting the most kicking points (16) in Super Bowl history during the Eagles’ victory over Kansas City. Elliott also set team postseason records in kicking points (43), made kicks (23) and made field goals (10). In addition, Kelee Ringo excelled as a gunner, posting a career-high eight special teams tackles.

In 2023, Pannunzio supported a group that ranked first in special teams DVOA (4.2 pct.), fifth in Pro Football Focus special teams grade (89.0), and 10th in Rick Gosselin’s annual special teams rankings (322.0 composite score). Elliott was voted second-team All-Pro after setting a franchise mark in field goal percentage (93.8 pct., 30-of-32), while Mann set club records in gross (49.8) and net (43.9) punting averages. Britain Covey was named a Pro Bowl alternate after he led the NFL in punt return yards (417).

During the 2022 campaign, when Philadelphia reached Super Bowl LVII, Pannunzio assisted a unit that featured three NFC Special Teams Player of the Week performances. He additionally helped Covey, an undrafted rookie, log the third-most punt return yards (308, eighth in the NFL) and third-highest punt return average (9.3, ninth in the NFL) in the conference.

In 2021, Pannunzio contributed to a special teams operation that was highlighted by Elliott, who registered a then-team-record 90.9 field goal percentage (30-of-33) en route to his first career Pro Bowl selection. Elliott finished the season as one of three NFL kickers to connect on 90-plus percent of their field goals and all of their extra-point attempts (44-of-44).

Prior to being named to his current role, Pannunzio served as the director of team development during the 2019-20 seasons. He originally held the title of director of personnel operations from 2015-16.

Between stints with the Eagles, Pannunzio was the running backs coach (2018) as well as the special teams coordinator/tight ends coach (2017) at Alabama on head coach Nick Saban’s staff. He also spent four years as the Crimson Tide’s director of personnel operations (2011-14).

From 2006-10, Pannunzio worked at Miami (FL), where he was the tight ends coach/special teams coordinator. During his time with the Hurricanes, he tutored players such as Jimmy Graham and Greg Olsen.

Pannunzio was the head coach at Murray State from 2000-05 and captained the Racers to the 2002 Ohio Valley Championship, becoming just the fourth head coach in school history to win a conference title. He also led Murray State to the 2002 NCAA Subdivision Playoffs.

Pannunzio worked under head coach Tommy Tuberville during his time at Auburn (1999) and Mississippi (1995-98), coaching the tight ends and special teams units with both programs. He also served in the same capacity at Minnesota (1992-94) under head coach Jim Wacker. Before joining the Golden Gophers, he was a member of Wacker’s staff at TCU (1990-91), where he
