

KEVIN PATULLO

PASSING GAME COORDINATOR

NFL Experience: 12th Year (1st with Eagles)
College: South Florida Hometown: Hillsborough, NJ

Kevin Patullo is entering his first year as the Philadelphia Eagles' passing game coordinator after spending the previous three seasons (2018-20) with the Indianapolis Colts, where he worked on the same coaching staff as Eagles head coach Nick Sirianni.

In 2020, Patullo served as Indianapolis' pass game specialist and was a key contributor to the Colts' offensive success. Indianapolis allowed the second-fewest sacks (21, tied) and third-fewest giveaways (15) in the NFL and ranked ninth in passing yards per attempt (7.6) and 11th in passing yards per game (253.3, sixth among AFC teams).

Quarterback Philip Rivers posted the eighth-best completion percentage (68.0 pct.) and 10th-most passing yards (4,169) in the league during his age 39 season in 2020. Wide receiver T.Y. Hilton paced the Colts with 762 receiving yards, while fellow wideout Zach Pascal tallied career highs with 44 receptions for 629 yards and five touchdowns (tied). Additionally, Indianapolis gained 916 receiving yards from running backs (including a career-high 482 yards from Nyheim Hines), which ranked second in the NFL, behind New Orleans (985).

Prior to being named pass game specialist, Patullo coached the Colts' wide receivers from 2018-19. In 2019, Hilton led Indianapolis in receptions (45) for the sixth time in his career and tied Pascal with a team high in receiving touchdowns (five).

During his first season with the Colts, Patullo assisted an offense that produced the league's sixth-most passing yards per game (278.8). Hilton finished the year with 76 catches for 1,270 yards and six touchdowns. Over the last nine weeks of the season, Hilton led the NFL with 916 receiving yards and was the only player to average more than 100 receiving yards per game (114.6) in that span.

Patullo was a senior offensive analyst at Texas A&M in 2017, working closely with the offensive staff on game planning and weekly offensive strategy. He coached wide receiver Christian Kirk, a second-round pick (47th overall) by the Arizona Cardinals in the 2018 NFL Draft, who garnered second-team All-SEC honors after totaling 58 receptions for 730 yards and seven touchdowns that season.

From 2015-16, Patullo served as the New York Jets' quarterbacks coach. During the 2015 campaign, when the Jets posted a 10-6 record, Patullo guided Ryan Fitzpatrick to a career-high 3,905 passing yards as well as a career-high, franchise-record 31 passing touchdowns. Fitzpatrick also registered a 100-plus passer rating in seven contests.

Patullo was the assistant wide receivers coach for the Tennessee Titans in 2014. He helped coach Kendall Wright to a productive year, featuring a career-high six touchdowns as well as the second-most receptions (57) and receiving yards (715) on the team.

Before he joined the Titans, Patullo spent three seasons (2010-12) as an offensive quality control coach with the Buffalo Bills and added assistant wide receivers coach to his title in 2012. With the Bills, he saw wide receiver Stevie Johnson record three consecutive seasons with 1,000-plus yards, including a career-high 1,073 yards in 2010.
