

JOE KASPER

DEFENSIVE PASSING GAME COORDINATOR

NFL Experience: 8th Year (5th with Eagles)
 College: Baldwin Wallace Hometown: Mentor, OH

SUPER BOWL CHAMPION: 2024 (LIX)

Joe Kasper is in his fifth overall season with the Philadelphia Eagles. He was promoted to defensive passing game coordinator in 2026 after serving as the team's safeties coach during the 2024-25 campaigns.

In 2025, Kasper oversaw a safeties group that helped the Eagles finish first in the NFL in opponent completion percentage (56.8 pct.) and fewest passing touchdowns allowed (14) and second in opponent passer rating (75.4). Reed Blankenship logged the second-most tackles (83) of his career while Philadelphia's 2025 second-round draft choice (64th overall), Andrew Mukuba, tied for the second-most interceptions (two) on the team. In addition, Kasper prepared Marcus Epps who solidified the secondary over the final month of the season with four starts in place of an injured Mukuba.

Kasper supported the top-ranked total defense (278.4 ypg) in the NFL during the 2024 campaign, when the Eagles defeated the Kansas City Chiefs in Super Bowl LIX. Philadelphia also led the league in passing defense (174.2 ypg) while ranking third in passer rating allowed (82.5) and sixth in opponent completion percentage (62.2 pct.) during the regular season.

With Kasper's assistance, C.J. Gardner-Johnson and Blankenship were one of only two safety tandems in the league to each register at least four interceptions in 2024. Gardner-Johnson finished third among safeties with a career-high-tying six picks (tied for the most by an Eagles safety since 1999) and ranked fifth at his position in Pro Football Focus coverage grade (82.6) (min. 500 coverage snaps). Blankenship led Philadelphia's defensive backs with 78 tackles and posted a career-high four interceptions.

Preceding his return to the Eagles, Kasper worked under Vic Fangio as the Miami Dolphins' safeties coach in 2023. He helped the unit finish third in sacks (56), eighth in takeaways (27), and 10th in total defense (318.3 ypg). Under Kasper's tutelage, Jevon Holland was voted a Pro Bowl alternate after producing 73 tackles, four passes defended, an interception returned for a touchdown, three forced fumbles and one fumble recovery.

Prior to the Dolphins, Kasper spent the 2021-22 seasons working as a defensive quality control coach with the Eagles.

In 2022, when Philadelphia advanced to Super Bowl LVII after its 14-3 regular-season campaign, Kasper assisted a defense that totaled the third-most sacks (70, tied) in NFL history, behind the 1984 Bears (72) and 1989 Vikings (71). He also helped the Eagles rank first in passing defense (179.8 ypg) while registering the fourth-most takeaways (27, tied).

During the 2021 season, Kasper contributed to a defense that ranked 10th in opponent yards allowed per game (328.8 ypg). In addition, the Eagles tied for the second-most defensive touchdowns (five) in the league.

Before arriving in Philadelphia, Kasper spent three years as a graduate assistant at Duke, where he worked with the quarterbacks (2020) and defensive backs (2018-19). In 2019, the Blue Devils ranked third in the ACC and 24th nationally with 199.0 passing yards allowed per game. He also helped Duke finish fourth in the conference in passing defense (199.5 ypg) and fifth in opponent passer efficiency rating (118.4) during the 2018 season.
